Poetry Home Repair Manual

The Poetry Home Repair Manual has really expanded my horizons, because prior to reading this I was mainly conversant with the "old" poets: John Donne, George Herbert, Keats, Longfellow, Dickinson. Ted opened me up to modern poetry, enlarged my repertoire, and gave me new ways to look at poetry.

The Poetry Home Repair Manual advocates for poems that can be read and understood without professional interpretation. My teacher and mentor, Karl Shapiro, once pointed out that the poetry of the twentieth century was the first poetry that had to be taught. He might have said that had to be explained.

The title grabbed me from the start. I've read this book at least a dozen times, and with each reading I've come away with new insights and inspiration. I loved the idea that a poem could be repaired like a leaky faucet or loose hinge with tools readily at hand. Actually, there are some poems I'd like to take a sledgehammer to, but I digress.
