The third type of equitable relief is restitution. Restitution is a remedy applicable to several different types of cases: those in which the contract was avoided because of incapacity or misrepresentation, those in which the other party breached, and those in which the party seeking restitution breached. As the word implies, restitution is a restoring to one party of what he gave to the other. Therefore, only to the extent that the injured party conferred a benefit on the other party may ...

Equitable Remedies

In general, remedies may be legal or equitable. In legal remedies, the non-breaching party can recover monetary damages. By contrast, a party may obtain an equitable remedy when a court forces the other party to perform to its part of the contract. This is in lieu of imposing a fine.
